"None, even the most glorious past, but the most active robust presence, shall guarantee our full future existence! So we must in our everyday strife look to the days ahead, rather than to the days past; today and tomorrow, not yesterday; to the dawn, not the sunset"

History of the "SLETS"

Even though the beginnings of the tradition of Sokol festivals were in the last Century, the tradition survived until today. The Sokol festivals are unique phenomenon and they were always considered by all the citizens to be a very special event. They became an extraordinary show of Sokol activities, often also a great encouragement to Czechoslovak nation during threatening times in its history. Beside collective performances, they included also sporting competitions, shows and many other great experiences in festive Prague. Our important politicians and presidents were always present at the festivals.

The extent of the festivals grew until 1948.

I. Festival 1882 took place on June 18th, on the Střelecký Island in Prague. 700 men exercised under the leadership of Miroslav Tyrs. 1572 Sokols dressed in traditional costumes formed the procession. They held 57 flags and patriotic citizens of Prague cheered.

II. Festival 1891 took place in "Kralovska obora" during the Anniversary Exhibition. More than 2 400 participants showed their exercises and various competitions in front of 7 000 people. A procession containing 5 000 members including friendly foreigners marched through Prague.

III. Festival 1895 took place during the Ethnographic Exhibition of Czechoslovakia and it was the first time it took place on the Letna plain. 5 000 participants including adolescents and foreign guests took part in competitions and the procession. More than 30 000 people came to watch the show already.

IV. Festival 1901 included besides exercises of men and adolescents also exercises of 876 women with clubs. People from Vienna, France, Poland and Slovenia competed here, too. The poster by Mikolas Ales invited people to the festival exposition; the procession of 11 000 Sokol members climaxed by the homage to the city of Prague on the Oldtown Square.

V. Festival 1907 was first "great" festival and lasted four weeks. This time, youth and women in traditional Moravian costumes also performed. 194 groups from the Czech Republic and other countries competed in various competitions. The festival scene "Chess match", picturing the victory of the Hussites over Zikmund, was brought out here for the first time. Fireworks on the Vltava river were arranged. More than 12 thousand members took part in the procession.

VI. Festival 1912 was a social event of the Federation "Slavonic Sokol" and lasted five weeks. More than 30 000 Sokols participated and competed and ten times more people came to see it. Sokols from the USA, France and Slavic countries performed there as well. The scene "Marathon" with 1500 participants was dedicated to the ancient Greek culture. It was a great encouragement to our nation.

VII. Festival 1920 was the last one that took place in Letna. More than 100 000 members participated and more than 500 000 people, including the president Masaryk, came to see it. High School games took place for the first time and the new Czechoslovak army performed here as well. The foundation of the Czechoslovak Republic was celebrated by the scene "Construction of the Statue of Liberty". 78 000 Sokol members formed the procession that walked through Prague. The march "Into The New Life" from Josef Suk was to be heard here for the first time.

VIII. Festival 1926 took place on Strahov. 140 000 participants arrived and about 800 000 people came to watch them. 200 groups from the CSO and the Federation of Slavic Sokol competed here. Sokol museum was opened in the new seat of the CSO at the Tyrs House and the statue of Tyrs was unveiled. T. G. Masaryk gave a flag to Sokols. Prominent Czechoslovak artists performed in the scene "Where Is My Home".

IX. Festival 1932 became a celebration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of M. Tyrs. The festival scene was called "Tyrs' s Dream" The festival included for example a run from nine parts of the country, winter festival games, high school games, general competition of the Slavonic Sokols, many cultural programs, sporting and cultural competitions. 190 000 members participated and more than one million people watched. Three processions with 100 000 participants took place. Max Svabinsky made the poster for this festival.

X. Festival 1938 adolescents took place during the time of the fascist threats. 30 000 men at the same time performed the famous exercises "Oath to the Republic", the same number of women did for the first time the "great choreography". All the processions turned into demonstrations. President Benes gave a flag to the Sokol organization (to which he later pinned the War cross). About 350 000 Sokols exercised, more than two million people came to watch them. The festival became a great encouragement to the nation before the Nazi occupation.

XI. Festival 1948, the exercises for women being prepared right after the war, finally took place after the communist putsch in February. The scene "Faithful Forever", performed by men, commemorated the Sokols that died during the war. A modern scene with clubs for women was so successful that it had to be repeated. A performance of 2500 scouts was also extraordinary. The number of participants of the festival exceeded 500 000. During the processions, demonstrations against the communist regime and president Gottwald took place. Communists socially punished more than 11 000 Sokol members after the festival.

XII. Festival 1994 the arrival of the place after a break of 46 years. 23 000 people performed on Strahov, out of which 1800 were from abroad. Sporting competitions, cultural and social events took place. Very touching was the meeting of foreign Sokols at the performance "Sold Bride" in the National Theatre. The president Vaclav Havel came as well. During the opening, Prague bells rang and Suk' s march "Into The New Life" was played. The choreography was rearranged for less people. This festival proved that Sokol was alive again.

XIII. slet 2000

Slet 2000 was organized as part of the National Days of Sports and Culture, during the event called "Prague The European City of Culture 2000".

The Slet was preceded by various prior events, taking place in 35 places in CR: adventure hikes, athletic events, races, team competitions, and various exhibitions and international conferences regarding athletics for everybody. At the Evzen Rosicky Stadium, participants from all age categories of COS, CASPV, and Slovakian Sokol, performed 12 pieces together.

All together there were 25,000 participants at the Strahov park of which 800 were visiting from out of the country.
